

I strongly support XM's right to broadcast local traffic. Every argument I have heard in opposition to their broadcasting seems absurd. On a tangential note, it seems ridiculous for local radio stations to broadcast such trash and then complain when XM radio does a better job.

The FCC should look after consumers. Not one consumer would be hurt by allowing XM to continue broadcasting traffic reports! A decision to the contrary would bother millions of satellite subscribers. Additionally, the local radio stations complaints are ridiculous. They never broadcast anything but hours old traffic reports anyway.

Most importantly, as I joke around with my family, it is all about me and I have XM radio and I like the local traffic reports and don't want to lose it. Thank you for reading this.
